Natural Medicinal Services product catalog — draft starter edition

Prepared for: NMS online-store reconstruction

Prepared by: Manus AI

Generated: 16 August 2026

Status: Working draft — not approved for publication or sale

Executive summary

This starter catalog reconstructs the NMS range from the three supplied historical documents. It separates 27 price-list SKU rows that were documented in May 2017 from 71 additional formulated-product variants found only in the brochure and 149 crude-herb lines that were historically offered as simples. The source material is valuable for product identity, legacy codes, pack references and packaging direction, but it is not evidence of current stock, formulation, legal classification, registration, pricing, barcode ownership or permitted advertising claims. Every supplier-, batch-, formulation-, regulatory- and artwork-dependent field therefore remains “To be confirmed.” 1 2 3

The recommended launch approach is to publish nothing until each selected SKU has a current signed specification, approved label copy, verified barcode, confirmed NAPPI status where applicable, current price, inventory record and regulatory decision. Historical disease-treatment language has been intentionally excluded from draft ecommerce descriptions. Product names that themselves communicate a therapeutic purpose should be reviewed before reuse.

Professional disclaimer: This document is a product-data reconstruction and packaging brief, not regulatory, medical or legal approval. Herbal medicines, complementary products, foods, cosmetics and raw botanicals can fall under different requirements. Obtain current South African regulatory and professional review before manufacturing, importing, marketing or selling any item.*

Source hierarchy and interpretation

The two May 2017 price lists are treated as the most reliable source for historical SKU codes, barcodes, NAPPI references and the sellable configurations recorded at that date. The brochure is used for categories, legacy variants, pack references, crude-herb names and historical packaging. Where the documents conflict, the field is flagged rather than silently resolved. Historical prices are retained only as archival references and must never be loaded as current ecommerce prices. 1 2 3

Source tier	Use in this catalog	Limitation
2017 price lists	Historical SKU, barcode, NAPPI reference, pack configuration and archival price	More than nine years old; not a current price or availability file
Product brochure	Categories, range discovery, legacy pack references and packaging examples	Contains historical claims and may include discontinued products
Draft fields	Proposed SKU for previously uncoded items, neutral descriptions and packaging requirements	Must be validated internally before use

Core online-store candidates

The rows below reproduce the code-bearing range from the supplied 2017 price lists. A row is a candidate, not an approved listing. The archival price shown is the source's 2017 price excluding VAT. The current retail price is deliberately left as "To be confirmed" in the workbook. 2 3

Technical specification policy

The historical documents do not provide complete, current product specifications. For every core and legacy product, the following fields remain To be confirmed: complete qualitative and quantitative formula; botanical identity and plant part; extract ratio and solvents where applicable; excipients; tablet or capsule mass; microbial, contaminant, pesticide and heavy-metal criteria; allergen and cross-contact statements; batch-testing requirements; directions; warnings; contraindications; storage; shelf life; packaging material; closure and tamper evidence; finished-pack dimensions and mass; manufacturing site; quality-system status; regulatory category; approved claims; artwork; current barcode; and current NAPPI status.

A product should move from Hold to Draft listing only when a current controlled specification and signed regulatory review are attached to the product record. It should move to Publishable only after label artwork, pricing, stock, tax, shipping, returns and traceability data are also approved.

Packaging direction

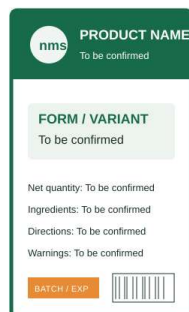

The source photograph shows a mixed legacy system of white plastic tablet bottles, folding cartons, a flexible or carton-based tea pack, a cylindrical seasoning container, a small ointment jar and an amber liquid bottle. The new starter system simplifies that into four principal formats while retaining the historic NMS green-and-orange visual cues. 1

NMS PACKAGING SYSTEM

Crude herbs / simples range

The brochure lists 149 crude-herb lines. The botanical names below are source transcriptions, not validated taxonomy. Several spellings are visibly outdated, incomplete or likely affected by OCR. Every line therefore remains an on-enquiry item until accepted taxonomy, plant part, grade, origin, contaminant testing, safety restrictions and regulatory category are confirmed. 1

Publication gate

No product should be made orderable merely because it has a historical barcode or NAPPI reference. The minimum gate is: verify the physical stock and supplier; compare the actual label with the master record; approve the formulation and category; validate all codes; approve permitted claims; capture current prices and tax; photograph the current retail pack; complete shipping rules; and record the final approval owner and date. Until then, retain the product as hidden or enquiry-only.
